Week 2 Takeaways

Some Sunday Stats:

- Brian Flores and the Vikings handed Ben Johnson his worst game by offensive success rate.
- Christian Darrisaw and Donovan Jackson have not been credited with a pressure allowed yet this season.
- Dallas Turner's 20 pressures through two weeks are the most of any defensive player since 2022.
- The Cincinnati Bengals defense held the Houston Texans to just one successful designed rush.
- Brock Purdy had the 4th best single game for a quarterback since 2022.
- The Las Vegas Raiders have the 2nd highest pressure rate in the league through two weeks.
- Bryce Young has a 91st percentile Total EPA through two games.

- Riq Woolen has been targeted eight times in two games and has allowed just two receptions for 21 yards.
- DeVonta Smith tied his career high for single game targets.
- The Philadelphia Eagles have the largest difference in early down and late down success rate to start a season since 2022.

Minnesota Vikings 9, Chicago Bears 3: Brian Flores gets the best of a rainy battle.

- Through bad weather and a Caleb Williams injury, Brian Flores' Vikings defense held Ben Johnson's offense to the worst single game offensive success rate since Johnson started calling plays. Flores blitzed the Bears at a massive 77.5% clip leading to a pressure on half of all dropbacks.
- The Vikings were able to come up with multiple sacks on five-man pressures. Dallas Turner put up 11 pressures, and Blake Cashman continues to impress us.

Buffalo Bills 41, Detroit Lions 31: Josh Allen and the Bills offense can do anything.

- The Bills offense has leaned into a heavy attack that can mash opponents on the ground. Dalton Kincaid allows them to still push the ball vertically, and James Cook is great on both duo and zone runs. It also helps that Josh Allen is playing out of his mind.
- Deone Walker put up seven pressures against the Lions, and only four other Bills players have had more than seven in a game since 2022.
