Week 6 Review

Here's what you need to know.

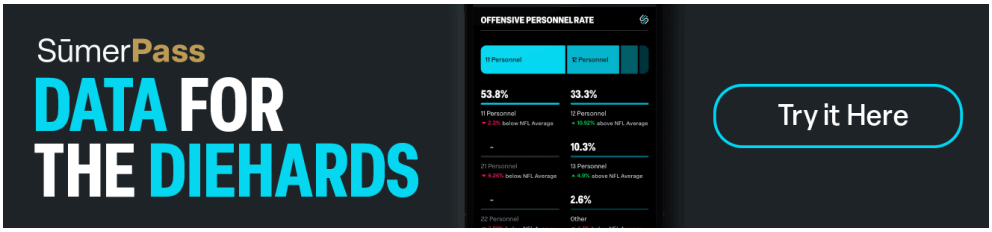

A Quick Note

- The data you see here comes from SumerSports' SumerPass. We recommend you check it out if you want to dive deeper into the data, build your own stats, or get live charting on game days.
- Our weekly reviews will have the most important stats from Sunday, takeaways from three big games, game boxes for those matchups, and our leaderboards. The rest of the game review boxes can be found on Tej's page on Monday morning.

The Sunday Stat Scroll

Here are some of our favorite stats from Sunday.

- Kenneth Walker leads the league in rushing yards despite only playing five games.
- Jordan Love had more passing yards on a single drive than Bo Nix and Cam Ward had in their entire Week 6 games.
- Caleb Williams had his highest completion percentage game and his second lowest average depth of target in Week 6.
- The Panthers defense did not allow a rush of 10+ yards against the Eagles.
- Travis Hunter is the first player in over two decades to have a receiving touchdown and interception in the same game.
- In Week 6, the Texans produced the best EPA/dropback performance in a game over the last two seasons against the Jaguars.
- The Chiefs defense had a 99th percentile EPA/play allowed against the Chargers.
- The Browns defense had a 98th percentile designed rushing success rate allowed.
- The Arizona Cardinals have won more games at SoFi Stadium this season than the Rams and Chargers combined.

Three Takeaways

Houston Texans 34, Jacksonville Jaguars 31: C.J. Stroud put up another strong performance as the Texans took down the Jaguars in London.

- C.J. Stroud was pressured on 40% of his dropbacks and faced a quick pressure on 26% of his dropbacks. Still, he went 11/13 for 147 yards and 2 touchdowns for 0.57 EPA/dropback under pressure.
- Stroud went 5/7 for 72 yards on throws 10-19 yards down the field and was 2/2 for 92 yards on 20+ air yard throws. He was also 10/11 for 142 yards on middle of the field throws.

Arizona Cardinals 18, Los Angeles Rams 16: Arizona wins a tight division game as the Rams drop to 2-4.

- The Cardinals defense played Cover 4 or Cover 6 on 24 of Matthew Stafford's 36 dropbacks. Stafford completed 16 passes for just 113 yards and took three sacks on those plays.

- Stafford completed 17 of 19 throws between zero and nine yards down the field, but those plays still ended up generating -0.05 EPA/play.
- Budda Baker had seven pass rushes, three pressures (two unblocked), and one sack against the Rams.
- High leverage plays were massive in this game as the Rams were 0/2 on 4th down and had a failed two-point conversion after their kicker was hurt.
- Jacoby Brissett was effective against the Rams blitzes as he went 7/7 for 57 yards and 0.67 EPA/dropback when the Rams sent five or more pass rushers. Brissett was not sacked on the day and had a quick 2.23 average time to throw.
